

FLORIDA COUPLE ARRESTED

Frank and Edna Grumblatz of Lakeland, FL, were arrested Monday and charged with filing false reports to police.

“I swear,” Frank says, “We are not making this up!”

The Grumblatz’s called 9-1-1 to report seeing a lion and a white tiger arguing at a rest stop on I-4.

Edna continued: “It was the strangest thing. They were parked at the rest stop in a snowplow. Who in the world needs a snowplow in Florida?”

“They seemed to be arguing about who was going to drive, because every time the lion got in the driver’s seat, the white tiger would begin to moan.”

“We didn’t know what else to do, so we called the police.”

Police said Mr. Grumblatz claims that the whole incident took less than 15 minutes, at which point the lion and white tiger finally got into the snowplow, turned around, and headed back on I-4 towards Tampa.

“The white tiger was driving, and seemed to be doing a darn good job maneuvering that big piece of equipment,” said Frank.

Police had no other reported sightings of this incident, and there were no other eyewitnesses at the rest stop. However, they did find a prescription for medical marijuana in the Grumblatz’s vehicle.

The Grumblatz’s have been sent to the Hokey Pokey Clinic (Motto: Turn Yourself Around) for observation.
